

GOLF COURSE UPDATE

Wow, it's hard to believe that the turf will be waking up from its winter nap shortly. This month we will be working on completing a lot of our winter projects. Some of these projects are: prepping equipment for the growing season, tree maintenance, bunker work, and root pruning. This month we will also begin cart path work if the weather isn't too wet.

Please enter and exit bunkers on the lower sides to prevent sand from shifting off the steep slopes. As we enter our wet season watch and avoid all soggy areas and try to use the cart paths when possible. We will rope or put signs in these areas to detour cart traffic. Remember to continue using sand and seed and return your bottles to the pro shop so they can be filled. Repair yours and one more ball mark on the greens. If the weather is cold call the maintenance shop or the pro shop to get a frost update. During a frost delay please ask someone in the pro shop if the practice green is clear of frost before practicing. If you have any questions or comments stop me on the course or call me at the maintenance facility.

Thank You,
Superintendent,

RED WOLF GOLF CLUB FEBRUARY 2021

It's beginning to look like golf season at the Red Wolf Golf Club!

This time of year is always filled with positive expectations for a great golf year as we shake off the cobwebs and try to rediscover our swing. For most of us February is when the outside golf season begins in earnest here in the valley. While the mornings are still cold (and sometimes frosty) the late mornings and afternoons are great for a stroll among the tall trees along the river in our part of the world

Although there has been much change surrounding our club recently the potential for a great golf year filled with competition, camaraderie, new (and renewed) friendships, and good times remains. The golf year begins this weekend with a pair of tournaments which will bring out many players for their first rounds of 2021. Good luck to all whom participate in the Groundhog Tournament and Big Game Scramble.

As we enter the second year of the pandemic I wish to express my appreciation to the RWGC membership for making our club a reliably safe space to recreate. Our collective efforts have preserved our ability to keep our course open and to maintain our golf routines in a secure environment. While we all hope for a quick return to normalcy we must also remain diligent in protecting ourselves and everyone around us until the virus recedes. Personally, I am confident that the RWGC will remain a safe haven for members and visitors during 2021 and into the future.

Have a great golf season and a wonderful 2021! I hope to see you on the links sometime soon.

Kermit C. Mankiller, CEO
Executive Officer
Nez Perce Tribal Enterprises

It is bittersweet as I sit down to write my last newsletter for the members of Red Wolf Golf Club.

As most of you have noticed or heard by now, I made the very difficult decision to resign from the club on January 8th. This decision weighed heavy on me for quite some time, but I feel it is in the best interest of myself and the club for me to pursue other job opportunities. The club has been my "home away from home" since I was about 8 years old, helping me learn and fall in love with the game of golf as well as paving the way for a career in the golf industry for the past 18 years. I can't emphasize enough how thankful I will always be toward the members for all their kindness and support throughout the years. The most difficult part of my decision was not having the opportunity to see the members each and every day anymore, which was the most joyous part of the job. The memories and relationships I have built while being at the club is something I will always cherish and will never go away.

I would be remiss if I didn't thank Kermit Mankiller and NPTE for giving me the opportunity to remain RWGC's Head Golf Professional since the acquisition. I will always be grateful for the working relationship we had and for their continued support of the operation. NPTE has some exciting things in the works and I have no doubt that the club has a bright future ahead of it. I wish for the club to have nothing but great success in the years to come. While this might be a temporary "goodbye," you will definitely still see me around whether it be on the golf course or just out and about. Thank you all again for everything you've done for me over the years and I look forward to seeing you again soon. Take care.

Thank you,
Jordan Mackey, Golf Pro
